Environment and Sustainability Minor

Geography & Philosophy

College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences

- Students will no longer be accepted into this program after Fall 2018. Program requirements below are for current students only.
- The environment and sustainability minor is now being offered through the environment, sustainability, and geography minor. Students interested are encouraged to pursue this degree option.

- Program Type: Undergraduate minor related to major
- Requirements for this program are current for Fall 2019
- Required credits in this minor: 24

The environment and sustainability minor complements any degree program concerned with the natural world and social world and how one impacts the other. The focus is the impact of humans on the environment. The minor augments degrees in anthropology, biology, education, environmental education, geography, geology, law, philosophy, political science, and sociology.
