Youth studies is an interdisciplinary program that prepares students for practice and scholarship. Faculty conduct community-based action research and evaluation on youth issues, programs, policies, and services. The major emphasizes civic engagement for young people marginalized in their communities.

Coursework focuses on everyday lives of young people, working with urban, marginalized, and other youth populations, and international and global perspectives and youth civic engagement.

Youth studies courses move students into the community through regular site visits, program observations, service-learning placements, international exchanges, and internships. Students are supported by culturally competent academic advising and one-on-one student-elder partnerships with faculty, staff, or community leaders. Qualified graduates may pursue graduate study in social work, education, or public policy.

Program requirements for the majors at the College of Education and Human Development (CEHD) fulfill a number of the University's required liberal education (LE) cores and themes. Students have multiple options for fulfilling remaining LE requirements.

The courses listed below fulfill the remaining youth studies BS LE requirements, and are designed explicitly to align with CEHD's mission by providing foundational skill development and preparation for advanced coursework in youth studies. Courses include: YOST 1366, YOST 1368W, FSOS 1211, CI 1032, CI 1121, EPSY 1261, EPSY 1281, and EDHD 1525W.
