Developmental Psychology B.S.

Institute of Child Development

College of Liberal Arts

- Program Type: Baccalaureate
- Requirements for this program are current for Fall 2020
- Required credits to graduate with this degree: 120
- Required credits within the major: 51 to 53
- Degree: Bachelor of Science

Developmental psychology (formerly child psychology) focuses on behavioral development from the prenatal period to maturity. Students complete coursework in topic areas including social development, cognitive development, language development, emotional and behavioral disorders, biological development, and research methods. The Institute of Child Development offers a bachelor of arts, a bachelor of science, and a minor in developmental psychology through the College of Liberal Arts (CLA). Majors may not receive a second major or second baccalaureate degree in psychology.

Students pursuing the BS degree take more major credits than those who pursue the BA, which has additional language and outside the major course requirements.

Program Delivery

This program is available:

- via classroom (the majority of instruction is face-to-face)
